Two week work placement for IML Aspirant's on the Tour du Mont Blanc

Who are we and what are we offering?

Our company www.hightrails.co.uk looks after the local logistics for Exodus trekking holidays in the Alps and we have a limited number of places for IML aspirants to accompany qualified IML leaders on a Tour du Mont Blanc trip.

The trip is a camping version of the Tour du Mont Blanc. More info about the trip can be found through this link

<http://www.exodus.co.uk/ch/france-holidays/walking-trekking/tour-du-mont-blanc-camping-trek/twb>

What are you going to get out of it?

As an aspirant this is an opportunity for you to gain experience of commercial walking trips, leading groups, group management, both soft and hard skills as well as experiencing the classic Tour du Mont Blanc circuit.

While on trip you will walk with the group and the IML leader each day and will be invited to take an active part in leading the group. This will involve tasks such as giving briefings and instructions to the group, sharing decision making with the IML leader in charge, leading the group on certain sections, and being a point of information and leadership for the group. Off the hill there are also a variety of camp chores that both the IML and support leaders help the clients complete such as taking down tents, washing up etc. and you will help the full time leaders organise this side of the trip too.

How much is it going to cost you?

You will need to buy your own flights to Geneva. If arriving before the group flight, Saturday 14.30 (TBC), we will transfer you to Chamonix free of charge.

You will also need to make a contribution to your personal camping and food costs. This will be in the region of 500€ for the two weeks

Finally you will need to have your own travel insurance.

We do not make any profit from your visit.

Why are we offering this?

We employ a number of IML's each year and luckily many of our leaders return for multiple seasons. That said we are keen to foster a good relationship with up and coming new leaders who will hopefully consider working with us, or at least in the industry, in future years.

Dates

The trips run between mid-June and late August. We will discuss with you on a case by case basis what specific trip would suit best.
